Squirrels.

from Clifford M. White, clerk of

WILLIAMSPORT IS VISITED BY BLAZE

Jacob Haines Garage Destroyed By Fire Sunday Night.
—Loss $3,000.

The garage of Jacob Haines, on Main-st. in Williamsport, was destroyed by fire Sunday night, causing a loss of $3,000 which was covered by insurance.

The blaze, which is believed to have started in the battery room of the garage, was discovered at 10 o'clock and had gained such headway that the Williamsport fire fighters concentrated their ef-orts to preventing it from spreading to other buildings.

This task was not hard as the garage was constructed of cement blocks which kept the fire within the walls of the building.

A Chevrolet sedan, which was wrecked in a collision at water and Mill-sts at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and which had been taken to the garage for repairs, was the only auto destroyed in the blaze.
Mr. Haines closed his garage at 6 o'clock to go to Columbus.

The Chevrolet was wrecked
when it collided with a machine bearing a foreign state license. It overturned and its occupants, said to be from Fox station, were slightly injured.

mour citizens were pictured making their preparations for the Pumpkin Show. To prove his assertion that he is through sky-larking this year, Mr. Fisher wrecked his plane on the court house tower.

Another cartoon of inter est to Circleville and Pickaway-co. resdents, which appeared in the Sun-

Isaac Grove, 82, and George Lutz, 78, Will Pursue Squirrels.

Approximately 185 Pickaway-co. hunters have obtained licenses from Clifford M. White, clerk of courts, but this number will be greatly increased when Lyman McGath, night clerk at the New American hotel, gives the total of licenses he has sold.

This is the first squirrel season Ohio has had for two years as the result of a law passed by the last legislature making odd numbered years closed seasons.

The law allows a hunter to take not more than four squirrels in one day. Sale of squirrels is prohibited.

The oldest hunter to secure a license to shoot the bushy-tailed animals is Isaac Grove, 82, of Circleville. The runner-up for the honor of being the oldest hunter getting a license is George W. Lutz, 78, Saltcreek-twp.

The season for hunting rabbits opens Nov. 15 and continues until Jan. 1. Cock pheasant season opens Nov. 15 and continues 10 days.

WILLIAMSPORT IS VISITED BY BLAZE

Jacob Haines Garage Destroyed By Fire Sunday Night. —Loss $3,000.

The garage of Jacob Haines, on Main-st in Williamsport, was destroyed by fire Sunday night, causing a loss of $3,000 which was covered by insurance.

The blaze, which is believed to have started in the battery room of the garage, was discovered at 10 o'clock and had gained such headway that the Williamsport fire fighters concentrated their efforts to preventing it from spreading to other buildings.

This task was not hard as the garage was constructed of cement blocks which kept the fire within the walls of the building.

A Chevrolet sedan, which was wrecked in a collision at water and Mill-sts at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and which had been taken to the garage for repairs, was the only auto destroyed in the blaze. Mr. Haines closed his garage at 6 o'clock to go to Columbus.

The Chevrolet was wrecked when it collided with a machine bearing a foreign state license. It overturned and its occupants, said to be from Fox station, were slightly injured.

FISHER SKYLARKS OVER CIRCLEVILLE

Circleville, its coming Pumpkin Show and its leading citizens were depicted in the "Skylark" of Dudley Fisher in the Columbus Dispatch on Sunday. Mr. Fisher was in town early last week to obtain the material for his skylark over Circleville, which he said would be the final one of this season.

The "Skylark" showed Court-st from Franklin to Pinkney-sts and its intersection with Main-st. Various citizens were pictured making their preparations for the Pumpkin Show. To prove his assertion that he is through skylarking this year, Mr. Fisher wrecked his plane on the court house tower.

Another cartoon of interest to Circleville and Pickaway-co residents, which appeared in the Sunday Dispatch, was from the pen of Billy Ireland and was part of his "Passing Show." His drawing showed how Pickaway-co is suffering from the pollution of Scioto river waters by Columbus sewerage.

GENE'S FIANCEE TO NAME TIME, PLACE

NAPLES, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Gene Tunney apparently is going to permit Mary Josephine Lauder to decide when and where they will be married.

The American heiress will arrive in Italy from the United States tomorrow morning—and all plans have been made to prevent a crowd of curious from gathering at the pier—and Tunney's wedding plans are held in abeyance until then. Today he loafed and made a sightseeing tour under direction of the American consul general, Homer M. Byington.

Everything is in readiness for the marriage should Gene desire to have it in Naples. Byington told the United Press.

"If Tunney wants to get married in Naples, we can do it for him as quickly as anywhere," Byington said. "My impression is that he is leaving that decision to Miss Lauder so there will be nothing definite until she arrives. At present everything is in readiness here for her word."

OHIOANS URGED TO BUY BUCKEYE COAL

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 1.—Governor Vic Donahey issued a proclamation urging "that the people of Ohio give heed to the situation in our coal fields and afford relief by supplying their fuel needs with Ohio-mined coal."

"The coal industry at one time was the second largest industry in the state," the governor said in his proclamation. "It has been its peculiar fate to be confronted by one obstacle after another over a period of years. Geographical location, prejudicial freight rates, unfavorable post-war readjustments and more recently a labor controversy—these and other conditions, all extraneous to the inherent merit of Ohio coal, have combined to reduce the industry to a low ebb."

"The consumers of Ohio can restore the industry. They can keep every mine busy, and Ohio mines and miners are capable of supplying all the needs of the state. Without such co-operation, thousands of miners now idle will be without opportunity to provide a livelihood for their families."

G. J. HEINZELMAN'S CONDITION SERIOUS

George J. Heinzelman, Ross-co. commissioner, who was severely injured in an auto accident Friday on the detour to Columbus near the Crites mill is believed to have a fracture at the base of the skull as it is indicated by hemorrhages from the ear.

Heinzelman suffered cuts about the right eye and on his arms; his left ear was almost torn off and the little finger of his left hand was badly lacerated.

Merchants Hold Spices To 6 To 6 Score

WATSON GOES NINETY YARDS FOR SCORE

Large Crowd Witnessed Hard Played Gridiron Game at Mason's Field.

Before a large crowd, the Circleville Merchants held the highly touted Forbess Spices, last year's middleweight champions of Columbus, to a 6 to 6 tie at Mason's field, Sunday afternoon. Several near-riots and a spectacular 90-yard run for a touchdown by Watson, left halfback of the Merchants, featured the game.

The Spices kicked off and held the Merchants for four downs. Then the Spices were held and they had to kick. Immediately after this kick, Watson made his spectacular run, dodging and running like a whirlwind. Merriman kicked for the extra point but failed. Speakman, playing for the Merchants, hurt his ankle and was replaced by Jones. The Spices, on a series of first downs took the ball to the 10 yard line but were held by Circleville.

Jones, in the second quarter, did some real playing, knocking the ball from one of the Columbus players, but the Merchants' attempt to gain ground failed. On an attempted pass, Columbus took the ball and with a series of line plunges put the pigskin over the line. They, too, failed on the point. McCrady replaced Carter. Wallace playing fullback for the Merchants, lost the ball, a Columbus man catching it and ran for 15 yards. Carter was again put in the game for Wallace who suffered a bruised shoulder. Dunson was placed on left end. Bowen, playing for the Spices, was their best man, making most of the gains.

MERCHANTS HOLD

In the third quarter, Haswell, veteran high school player, was at center for the Merchants. The game was held up for a few minutes because of a free for all fight which started over some dirt tackled made by the Columbus team. The Columbus gridgers, with a series of line plunges, took the ball to the five yard line and attempted an end run. They were held by the Merchants through a good tackle made by Watson.

The third and fourth quarters were similar in many respects, neither team gaining much ground. In the fourth quarter, the Merchants were able to make two first downs on three plays but the Columbus line tightened and the Merchants were forced to kick. The same was true of Columbus and they were forced to punt. Watson received the ball and made a spectacular return of 25 yards.

VISITORS' LINE HEAVY
The Columbus team had a heavy line, averaging 185 pounds, and a backfield of about 160 pounds. Quinn, Bowen and Mathews were the stars for Columbus, making most of the gains. This team did most of their tackling around the necks instead of the shoestrings, and during the game several near riots resulted.

Merriman, Jones, Watson and Riggin probably played the best for Circleville but the entire team made a good showing.

The lineup:

Merchants	POS	Columbus
Riggin	C	Ritzman
Kissan	LG	Steinmetz
Speakman	RG	Busick
Goldsberry	RT	Wallace
Rothman	LT	Hornbeck
Bochari	LE F. V.	Almick
Carter	RE	Miller
Merriman	Q	Hardy
Watson	LH	Quinn
Wilkinson	RH	Bowen
Wallace	F	Mathews

Baseball

By United Press

Yesterday's heroes—Twenty-five thousand fans in seven major league ball parks, who saw the regular season through to the last put-out Sunday, although nothing depended upon the outcome of any of the games.

The New York Yankee's 101st victory of the year nearly proved costly when Lou Gehrig was knocked unconscious by a batted ball at Detroit. The Yankees first baseman recovered and was able to leave for New York with the team. Waite Hoyt won his 22nd game of the season, beating the Tigers, 7 to 6, Babe Ruth hitting his 54th home run and Gehrig his 27th.

Welland pitched the White Sox to a 1 to 0 victory over the Athletics, whose rookie pitcher, Yankees, allowed only four hits and deserved to win.

The Boston Red Sox finished the season by taking their fourth straight game from the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 2.

Washington pounded Blalocker and Whitte and beat the Browns, 9 to 1, "Goose" Goslin taking third place in the American league home run hitting race with his 17th of the year.

Frankhouse's wildness in the first inning and homers by O'Doud and O'Farrell gave the Giants a hollow triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals at the Polo grounds.

Brooklyn was boosted above the .500 percentage mark by a victory over the Phillies, 5 to 1, in the last game of the season.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1, with the fans more interested in the snapping fielding of the losers than in anything else. The Reds infield completed three double plays to bring the team's total for the season to 194, twelve more than the previous record.

When the scoreboard showed Jack Rothrock catching for the Boston Red Sox, the clever young utility player yesterday achieved his ambition to fill all nine positions on the team this season. Rothrock pitched against Detroit for one inning last week, retiring the side promptly. He caught only one third of an inning at Cleveland yesterday.

A new type of football will be introduced to eastern gridiron fans this week when Southern Methodist University from Dallas, plays the Army at West Point.

The first team from Texas ever to invade the East, S. M. U. will bring a dazzling pass attack which has sent many great teams in the southwest and middle west hurrying to defeat during the past five years to pit against Army's veteran eleven.

The S. M. U. Mustangs crushed Missouri's powerful eleven last fall with an aerial offensive that rolled up 32 points—one of the largest scores ever amassed against a Missouri team. The 1927 Missouri Valley champions beat Northwestern the next Saturday, 34 to 19.

In the last five years S. M. U. has lost only four games and stands second to Notre Dame in games won and lost over that period. From 1922 through 1927, the Mustangs have scored 936 points to their opponents' 222 points. Only Texas A. & M. (twice), Oklahoma University and Gettysburg College have beaten S. M. U. during the past five years. The Mustangs have played eight intercollegiate games during that period and lost only one to Oklahoma, 9 to 0, in 1925.

Mann Lost to Team
The S. M. U. eleven has lost Gerald Mann, the little blue streak who outshone Bruce Caldwell, Ed Connor, Gibby Welch and other eastern stars in the East-West game at San Francisco at the close of last season, but has another brilliant quarterback in Sammy Reed who has been Mann's shadow the past two years.

Ray Morrison, the former Vanderbilt star who was picked by Grantland Rice as one of the greatest quarterbacks of all time, has schooled Reed to take up the torch carried so brightly in the southwest by Mann for the past three years.

Almost a replica of Mann in size and actions, Reed is the key of the Mustangs' baffling pass attack. Weighing slightly more than 150 pounds and built close to the ground, Reed has the hand of a juggler. He can toss a football through a barrel at 20 yards, and he can throw a spiral ball to a receiver at 40 yards. Morrison, who is a Texas (Tex.) Journal and a leading football authority of the southwest.

The Mustangs under Morrison have developed the pass in all its variations and have reached such a point that they are passing on any down, at any stage of the field, and at any spot on the field. While the pass is the Mustangs' greatest single weapon, it is by no means their only dangerous weapon. In Redman Hunt, a trimly-

NEW YORK IS UNDER DOG IN WORLD SERIES

Yankees Going to Be Hard To Beat Because They Are Expected to Lose.

BY FRANK GETTY

(United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Next in order to pitching, batting and the "breaks" of baseball, psychology plays a most important part in determining the outcome of any given world series.

The New York Yankees are going to be particularly hard to beat this year because they will enter the post-season series as the under dogs.

Dogs, in their day, (and four out of five have them), have played their part in deciding the fate of the American league champions. Hot dogs applied too frequently to Babe Ruth's generous interior some seasons ago, growled the Yankees right out of the race. Since that time, the Babe has wisely let that species of dog sleep in its own hot water, but it is said that Miller Huggins still is unable to pass a weenie and without shuddering.

YANKS DANGEROUS
As under dogs, to return from gastronomic to baseball, the Yankees ever have proven that their bite is worse than their bark.

In the pool parlors and pop pavilions of Manhattan, the National league champions are quoted favorites to win the coming series at rapidly lengthening odds. The Yankees have hardly one whole ball player on their list of eligibles. Babe Ruth is limping, Tony Lazzeri can hardly spoon home his spaghetti, Lou Gehrig has a goose egg lump on his cranium, Joe Dugan has a trick knee that will jump everywhere except the hoop, Mark Koenig's tonsils are heavier than his hitting, while Herb Pennock, and Earl Combs, a ball club in themselves, have joined the "dear friends of the radio audience" who will take their world series with a little static.

Yet to my mind the best indication of what may be expected of the New York club when it faces the Cardinals is to be found in fond recollections of the last series which the Yankees played with the Philadelphia Athletics during the second week in September.

TROUNCE MACKEMEN
The Yankees had watched a lead of 13 1-2 games wither away, and had seen the blanching pachyderms from the city of brotherly love plunge past as though all the vest-vesters of Philadelphia were at their heels.

And then the Yankees, not much stronger intrinsically than at the present time, arose and spanked in 19 to 2 victory over Transylvania, another team from Ol' Kentucky.

Heidelberg tromped Oberlin 18 to 0 on the latter's field, while another home team, Wooster, also lost on its own grounds, going down to a 20 to 13 defeat at the hands of Ashland.

Bowling Green turned back Ohio Northern 7 to 0 at Ada, and University of Cincinnati wound up with a 29 to 0 advantage over Hanover.

Results of other games: Case 2, Wilmington, 0; Carnegie Tech, 22, Westminster, 6; John Carroll, 31, Ypsilanti, 9; Dayton U., 66, Findlay, 6; Miami 42, Defiance, 0; Kent State, 25, Kenyon, 6; Capital, 19, Baldwin Wallace, 0.

Out at Ohio State University, Coach Jack Wilce ordered a regulation game between his first team and his reserves. The first team romped away to a 75 to 9 victory.

CARDS FAVORED IN NEW YORK BETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Betting odds, favoring the St. Louis Cardinals, to defeat the New York Yankees in the world series, have lengthened rapidly since the two major league pennant races were decided.

The original odds offered by New York gamblers were 6 to 5 on the National league champions. Overnight these went out sharply to 7 to 5 and then to 10 to 7, even before a majority of the sporting gentry had heard about the injury to Lou Gehrig, who is bringing back a badly swollen face as the result of an encounter with a batted ball in Detroit.

The odds are 5 to 4 on the Cardinals to win the opening game, but 12 to 5 against the National league club winning the first two games of the series.

Merchants Hold Spices To 6 To 6 Score

WATSON GOES NINETY YARDS FOR SCORE

Large Crowd Witnessed Hard Played Gridiron Game at Mason's Field.

Before a large crowd, the Circleville Merchants held the highly touted Forben Spices, last year's midweight champions of Columbus, to a 6 to 6 tie at Mason field, Sunday afternoon. Several near-riots and a spectacular 90-yard run for a touchdown by Watson, left halfback of the Merchants, featured the game.

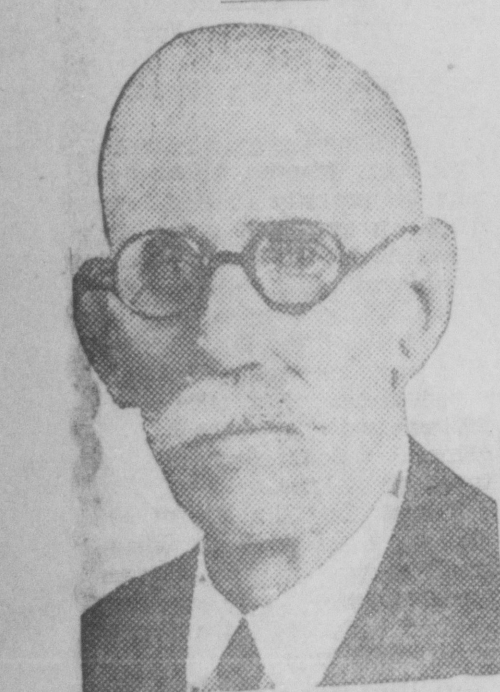

The Spices kicked off and held the Merchants for four downs. Then the Spices were held and they had to kick. Immediately after this kick, Watson made his spectacular run, dodging and running like a whirlwind. Merriman kicked for the extra point but failed. Speakman, playing for the Merchants, hurt his ankle and was replaced by Carter, who was replaced by Jones. The Spices, on a series of first downs took the ball to the 10 yard line but were held by Circleville.

Jones, in the second quarter, did some real playing, knocking the ball from one of the Columbus players, but the Merchants' attempt to gain ground failed. On an attempted pass, Columbus took the ball and with a series of line plunges put the pigskin over the line. They, too, failed on the point. McCrady replaced Carter. Wallace playing fullback for the Merchants, lost the ball, a Columbus man catching it and ran for 15 yards. Carter was again put in the game for Wallace who suffered a bruised shoulder. Dundon was placed on left end. Bowen, playing for the Spices, was their best man, making most of the gains.

MERCHANTS HOLD
In the third quarter, Haswell, veteran high school player, was at center, for the Merchants. The game was held up for a few minutes because of a free for all fight which started over some dirty tackles made by the Columbus team. The Columbus gridders, with a series of line plunges, took the ball to the five yard line and attempted an end run. They were held by the Merchants through a good tackle made by Watson.

The third and fourth quarters were similar in many respects, neither team gaining much ground. In the fourth quarter, the Merchants were able to make two first downs on three plays but the Columbus line tightened and the Merchants were forced to kick. The same was true of Columbus and they were forced to punt. Watson received the ball and made a spectacular return of 25 yards.

VISITORS' LINE HEAVY
The Columbus team had a heavy line, averaging 185 pounds, and a backfield of about 160 pounds. Quinn, Bowen and Mathews were the stars for Columbus, making most of the gains. This team did most of their tackling around the necks instead of the shoestrings, and during the game several near riots resulted.

Merriman, Jones, Watson and Riffin probably played the best for Circleville but the entire team made a good showing.

Yesterday's heroes—Twenty-five thousand fans in seven major league ball parks, who saw the regular season through to the last put-out Sunday, although nothing depended upon the outcome of any of the games.

The New York Yankee's 101st victory of the year nearly proved costly when Lou Gehrig was knocked unconscious by a batted ball at Detroit. The Yankees first baseman recovered and was able to leave for New York with the team. Waite Hoyt won his 22nd game of the season, beating the Tigers, 7 to 6. Babe Ruth hitting his 54th home run and Garry his 27th.

Weiland pitched the White Sox to a 1 to 0 victory over the Athletics, whose rookie pitcher, Yankees, allowed only four hits and deserved to win.

The Boston Red Sox finished the season by taking their fourth straight game from the Cleveland Indians, 7 to 2.

Washington pounded Blalocker and Willett and beat the Browns, 9 to 1, "Goose" Goslin taking third place in the American league home run hitting race with his 17th of the year.

Frankhouse's wildness in the first inning and homers by O'Doud and O'Farrell gave the Giants a hollow triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals at the Polo grounds.

Brooklyn was boosted above the .500 percentage mark by a victory over the Phillies, 5 to 1, in the last game of the season.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds, 6 to 1, with the fans more interested in the snap-py fielding of the losers than in anything else. The Reds infield completed three double plays to bring the team's total for the season to 194, twelve more than the previous record.

When the scoreboard showed Jack Rothrock catching for the Boston Red Sox, the clever young utility player yesterday achieved his ambition to fill all nine positions on the team this season. Rothrock pitched against Detroit for one inning last week, retiring the side promptly. He caught only one third of an inning at Cleveland yesterday.

U. during the past five years. The Mustangs have played eight intersectional games during that period and lost only one, to Oklahoma, 9 to 0, in 1925.

Mann Lost to Team

The S. M. U. eleven has lost Gerald Mann, the little blue streak who outshone Bruce Caldwell, Ed. Connor, Gibby Welch and other eastern stars in the East-West game at San Francisco at the close of last season, but has another brilliant quarterback in Sammy Reed who has been been Mann's shadow the past two years.

Ray Morrison, the former Vanderbilt star who was picked by Grantland Rice as one of the greatest quarterbacks of all time, has schooled Reed to take up the torch carried so brightly in the southwest by Mann for the past three years.

Almost a replica of Mann in size and actions, Reed is the key of the Mustangs' baffling pass attack. Weighing slightly more than 150 pounds and built close to the ground, Reed has the hands of a saint. He can toss a football through a barrel at 20 yards, a kick to Horace S. McCoy, of the Dallas (Tex.) Journal and outstanding football authority of the southwest.

The Mustangs under Morrison have developed the pass in all its variations and have reached such perfect control in handling the pigskin as to think nothing of passing on any down, at any stage of the game and at any spot on the field. While the pass is the Mustangs' greatest single weapon, it is by no means their only dangerous weapon. In Redman Hume, a trimly-built 170 pound halfback who runs with a serpentine motion, S. M. U. has the Southwest's greatest ball carrier. Hume runs with his hips and once in a broken field is harder than a scared deer to halt. His one deadly is his addiction to fumbling at critical moments.

The Mustangs have other star backs in Ross Love, a 190 pound battering ram; Pat Knief, a rugged halfback with a penchant for slipping off tackle; and Ira Hopper, a indefatigable fullback who is a great defensive player.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY GRIDIRON VICTIM

HIRAM, O., Oct. 1.—Ross Taylor, 16, halfback on the Hiram high school football team, was dead today, the first victim of the 1928 football season in Ohio.

He suffered injuries to his spine Sept. 15 in a game with the Mantua high school. His injury was not believed to be serious until a few days ago. He died Sunday. Because of Taylor's death, Principal N. E. Bingham of the Hiram high school, has ordered the team's football schedule for the year cancelled.

HORNSBY IS CHAMP

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, has won the National league batting championship for the seventh time in the past nine years with an unofficial average of .387. Hornsby led his league in batting in 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. Paul Waner, last year's batting king, was second this season, and Freddie Lindsom of the New York Giants, third.

RUTH'S MARK IS 54

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Although in a batting slump through August and September, Babe Ruth finished the season only six homers short of his own world's record of 60, established in 1927. The Yankee slugger hit his 54th of the year off Vic Sorrell of the Tigers in the fifth inning, Sunday, with Cedric Durst on first base.

UMPIRES NAMED

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—American league umpires for the world series will be C. B. Owen and W. A. McGowan. E. S. Barnard, president of the league, announced here. Barnard also named George Hildebrand and Harry C. Giesel as umpires for the Chicago city series between the Cubs and White Sox.

And then the Yankees, not much stronger intrinsically than at the present time, arose and spanked those same white elephants until they squealed for mercy and departed for the west and subsequent oblivion with old Mahout Mack tearing his few remaining locks in despair.

When they start anything as under dogs, the Yankees are exceedingly hard to beat. The Cardinals are logical favorites on form, but their American league rivals are likely to mangle the dope sheet and make as much fuss as a cerebus in barring the pathway to the world's championship.

Both teams are working out at Yankee stadium today. The National league champions finished the regular season here Sunday and Manager McKechnie promptly telegraphed to Miller Huggins at Detroit asking permission to practice at the big ball park in the Bronx, where the series starts on Thursday.

"Go right ahead," replied Huggins who was busy getting his crimples into wheel chairs and aboard a train for New York.

It Costs Money To Run A Bank

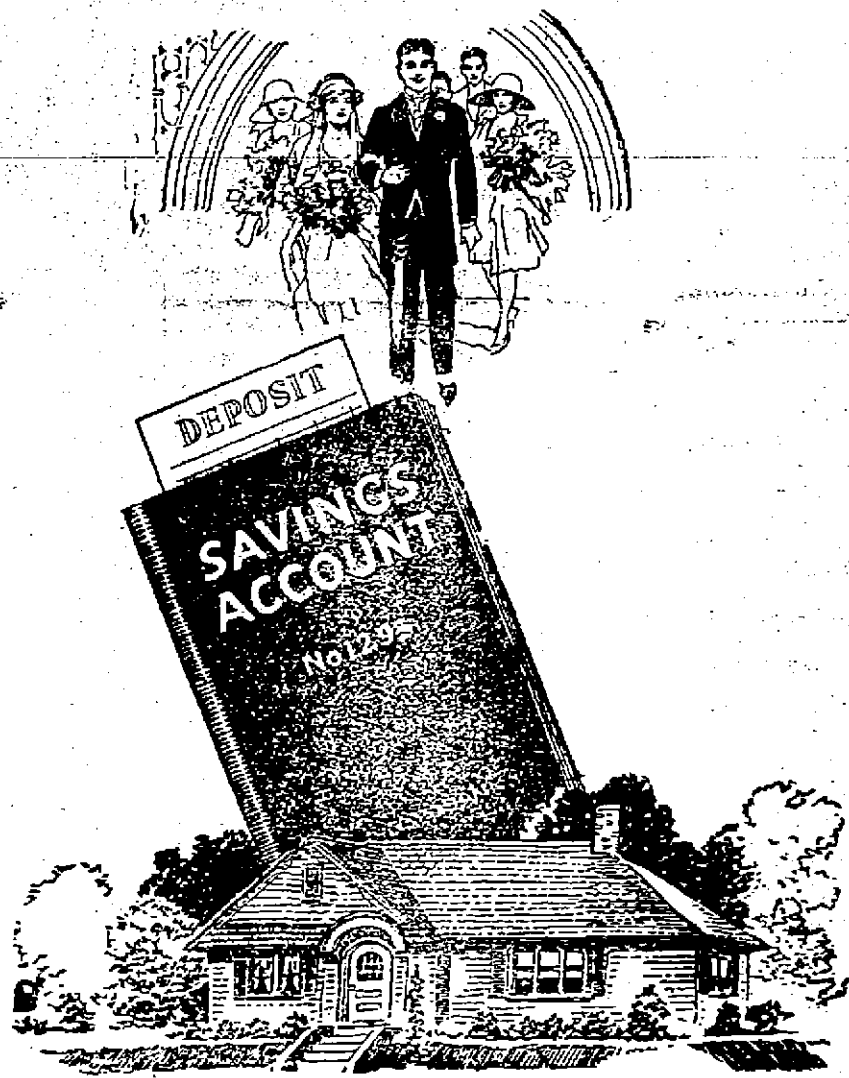

We were talking with a banker the other day.

We asked him, in the course of the conversation, what the biggest item of expense is in conducting a bank.

He said, "Giving service."

And then he explained. "You'd be surprised how many people issue checks the day before pay day, then deposit just enough the next day to meet those checks. All the bank can hope to get out of such a practice is the privilege of being bookkeeper for those customers. And that privilege costs money."

We have an idea that we, as a community abuse our banking privileges. We don't hear our local banks complaining, but we wonder if it wouldn't be well to consider our individual banking practices. In other words, would we welcome our own accounts if we were the banker?

We asked him, in the course of the conversation, what the biggest item of expense is in conducting a bank.

He said, "Giving service."

And then he explained. "You'd be surprised how many people issue checks the day before pay day, then deposit just enough the next day to meet those checks. All the bank can hope to get out of such a practice is the privilege of being bookkeeper for those customers. And that privilege costs money."

We have an idea that we, as a community abuse our banking privileges. We don't hear our local banks complaining, but we wonder if it wouldn't be well to consider our individual banking practices. In other words, would we welcome our own accounts if we were the banker?

BIBLE THOUGHT

THE PRINCE OF PEACE—For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.

PRAYER—O God, we thank Thee, for the unspeakable gift.

AMERICA NEEDS WORLD OUTLOOK

Plenty of American citizens keep their attention, and consequently their knowledge, concentrated almost exclusively upon our western hemisphere, and indeed upon our own immediate foreground in it; but meanwhile events much more important for humanity and for history as a whole may be going forward in the Orient that lies in the shadow of our ignorance and indifference. All of us as individuals, or indeed as a generation, may easily and unconsciously limit our outlook on life, or our experience of it, to certain phases valid and valuable enough in themselves, but no more so than certain others which our predecessors likewise have overemphasized, but which our modern world neglects or ignores. The only remedy for such one-sidedness, which may so easily settle into provinciality, is the deliberate effort to "go and see."

THE MAGIC OF THE SCIENTISTS

The simultaneous broadcasting by radio and television at the General Electric laboratory, raises the question how soon we may hope to see dramatic performances reproduced in our homes by this modern marvel. There seems no limit to the magical things the modern scientists are doing. They have already made the remotest homes the scene of fascinating music and instructive amusing entertainment. The idea that in addition to these amazing features, which have already become an everyday commonplace, we are going to see as well as hear over the other waves, seems almost beyond comprehension to the non-scientific mind. Anyway, the life of the future is not going to be dull anywhere. With so many fascinating things to do, it may take some effort to induce people to do much of any work.

IS THE WORLD FUTILE?

President Coolidge talked some days ago to the British artist who was painting his portrait, who remarked that the possibility of future wars had cast its shadow over the younger generation of Europe, and brought about a feeling of utter futility. Considering how wars work havoc with human affections and destroy the result of our toil, our human race has made a most sorry mess of things.

Yet all that futility can be cured, if the strong and righteous people bestir themselves to stop the evils that threaten our civilization. The great majority of people want peace and righteousness, and if we do not get it, it is partly because people neglect attention to the business of government, and partly because they are led astray by incompetent or designing politicians.

HARVEST DAYS

Many anxieties beset the life of the farmer, and only people with a certain amount of optimistic philosophy can keep calm through the days of drought and insect pests, and all the various troubles that afflict the agriculturist. It is a wonderful feeling for the man whose life is thus a constant gamble with nature, and a fighting against odds which are beyond his control, to really get this crops harvested and safely tucked away under cover or sold on the market.

His prices are often disappointing. Often it seems as if he had made no money at all, and he feels that if he has fed and clothed himself and his family, it is about all he can expect.

But modern machinery and appliances are helping the farmer more and more to make these harvest days a success. The farm-

Broadway Love

by Thomas Edgewood

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JANET WILDE is the daughter of Fenimore Wilde, one of Broadway's favorite actors. His son, Frank, is an idler and a spendthrift, so Janet has a hard time mothering both of them. Although the father's income is large, he is constantly in hot water. On the eve of a great opening night he is thrown into a rage by a creditor and has a heart attack. Janet, on the same day, goes to luncheon with Gordon Pryor, a young but impetuous actor, who proposes to her. She accepts, but in the restaurant she meets a young musician who excites the actor's jealousy. This man, Leonard Quigg, attracts Janet greatly. She and Gordon Pryor attend the big "first night," which her father hopes will prove the crowning triumph of his life.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VIII.
JANET was home in time to receive a telephone call from her father's dresser, an arrangement which had existed for a long time.
"I have heard him ask seven people, Miss Janet, who wasn't on your list," the man informed her. "Mr. Wilde is considerable hot up—nervous-like, but in his best mood. He left the theatre—a whole line of taxis just before I phoned you."
"I told you so, Elizabeth!" Janet smiled at that devoted woman. "Father's done it again, and I only hope there is enough food."
"Don't you worry, Miss Janet," Elizabeth reassured her. "I knew what he'd do—and I could take care of half Broadway tonight."
At last a line of taxis drew up outside the house, and Fenimore Wilde entered with a group of his admirers.
"One or two friends of mine have been good enough to come back with me, my child," Janet's father remarked, as he put his arms about her. "You can find them a mouthful to eat."
Janet kissed her forehead while her hand caressed his beautiful silver hair.
"You were better than you have ever been before, and I was thrilled to think I was the daughter of such an actor."
"So my little girl liked me—did she?" he said with a great humility. He turned to a group of people who surrounded him. "Most of you know my daughter Janet. She is kind enough to have liked my performance tonight."
Janet paused, waiting. She knew it would come—and come it did. "Janet is my severest critic," Fenimore Wilde remarked as though he had never said it before. "When she is satisfied, then I know I wasn't as bad as I always think I am."
But the room was filled with people. Peter was busy serving trays of cocktails. The great critic, Augustus Slade, was smiling at George Willis, an equally great actress, who refused to grow old. Friedrich Leinzig, the German-American philosopher, towered in his bulk above his fellow-guests, a monolithic glint to his distinguished face—full, like the moon. He was glancing down at his own feet, and remarked to Lillian Conneland, famed more for her beauty than for her acting.
"The world of men, dear lady, is sharply divided into two classes—those who wear white socks and those who are beloved by women." "And you," the stage beauty smiled up at him, "belong to both classes at once!"

There were many more of them—Norton Penton, wearing his toupee, and rightly believing that, in the early fifties, he was still a matinee idol; James P. Ford, noted for the acid of his theatrical reviews, and looking more like a boy actor than a middle-aged critic, good-looking and charming; and—among the strangers to the house—New York's most spectacular young surgeon, the celebrated Dr. David Churchill, who had been brought there by Friedrich Leinzig.
He was introduced to Janet, and she felt instinctively that she liked David Churchill. He was only thirty-six, and astonishingly young to have achieved such fame in the world of surgery. He was above medium height, and wore tortoiseshell rimmed spectacles, while his hands were large, and, Janet thought, dreadfully capable.
"I feel like a fish, Miss Wilde," the surgeon-confided in her.
"Out of water?" Janet asked. "Try a cocktail!" She signed to Peter.
"Can't," he laughed. "I perform, in my way, tomorrow morning—so I can't even try a little alcohol. But will you tell me how it is that I find myself among so many celebrities?"
"Is this modesty?" Janet chaffed him. "I know less of your world than you can possibly know of ours, and yet even I have heard of you. So the modesty is the same kind as that of my dear father."
"He is charming," David Churchill smiled at her. "Rather like a child—if I dare say so to his daughter."
"Exactly like a child," Janet began, when she turned to listen to what Gordon was saying to her father.
"I am a nobody in the theatre, Mr. Wilde," Gordon was saying, in tones of hushed awe, "but even I am vain enough to think that I know a little about your profession. May I tell you, then, that you were a revelation of dramatic art to-night, and that I can never thank you sufficiently?"
Even Janet held her breath in suspense. She knew that her father would take flattery by the shovel, but wasn't this a little too gross?
But she need not have worried. Fenimore Wilde smiled benignly. He had swallowed it all, and was delighted with Gordon.

"You are very kind to an old man," Mr. Pryor—just an old actor who has achieved some slight success, and who is always grateful to anyone good enough to say that he has not altogether failed.

"Can you beat it!" Janet turned to her new friend. "Dr. Churchill—is there any flattery a famous actor won't swallow?"

"I like flattery myself," he confessed. "Any time another doctor intimates that I'm not so bad—I like it all right!"
Peter came into the room and whispered to Fenimore Wilde. Janet saw her father hurry out into the hall, and wishing to save him from any possible annoyance, she followed him.
In the hall stood a shabby, and rather tragic figure. He was a man past sixty, with long gray hair and all the hall-marks of the old-fashioned tragedian.
"Matthew Drake, as I live!" Fenimore Wilde exclaimed heartily. "Matthew, it warms my heart to see you."
"Spoken as I would have you speak, Fenimore," the old man's voice rolled through the house. "Others might have imagined that at the height of your fame, Fenimore, you would have forgotten just an old friend—a man persistently kept down by ill-fortune."
"Forget you?" Fenimore returned, shaking both the other's hands. "But come on in! A few friends of mine are here, as they are kind enough to like what I did tonight."
But the old man drew back. "No, Fenimore," he said in a lower voice. "I would not be a death's head at your fest. I am not in the mood for strangers, but if you could—I happen to be temporarily embarrassed—waiting for a check—but if you could let me have ten dollars—I would."

"I refuse absolutely," Fenimore Wilde said as he dived into his pocket and pulled out a roll of bills. "How dare you, Matthew, ask an old friend for ten? What am I? An actor—or a pawnbroker? I shall be honored if you will let me act as your banker," and, peeling off some bills, he thrust a hundred dollars into the old man's hand, and then attended him to the door with as much care as though he had been John Montague himself.
Janet's eyes misted with tears. "You're very dear, Father."
They had all gathered at supper, and raising a glass of champagne, Augustus Slade proposed his host's health.
Fenimore Wilde rose to reply. "My friends," he said, in his musical voice, "tonight forms almost a turning-point in my career when I look around me and—"

Janet saw her father's face turn a grey-green in color. His hand went to his throat, and then, after a chaste second, Fenimore Wilde crashed face down over the supper-table, and lay still.
Fenimore Wilde had delivered his last lines.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, The Circleville Herald: Prohibition, well its wonderful! It cost the government $30,000,000 a year to try to enforce it and you can get any kind of a drink in any state in the union. It is the cause of so many corrupt officials, gun-men and hi-jackers. What would it be if we had a prohibition president? Who would they nominate? If they were looking for the biggest man for the party, they would have to name a moonshiner. Where would they get their campaign funds? How would they eliminate all these gun-men and thugs if they ever modify or do away with prohibition. They are so used to easy money what would they go in for? With the money that the government spent trying to enforce prohibition they could build a sea wall from Cairo, Ill., to New Orleans on the Mississippi river, and if it runs four years or so more would make the drainage canal a ship canal from Chicago to the gulf.

Just think it over.

for Governor. Our members in both parties are assured that whichever is elected, Ohio will have a Governor who is both personally and politically dry.
In regard to the Presidential candidates, we affirm that Governor Smith's record as a member of Tammany Hall, and a life-long friend of the liquor traffic condemns him in the eyes of every dry voter.

He has publicly announced that if elected he will recommend the complete modification (weakening) of the Volstead law. There could be no greater discredit to law observance than to have in the White House a president who by his own personal habits and influence sets an example of disrespect for law.

On the contrary, Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance says, "I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Modifications of the enforcement law which would permit what the Constitution forbids, is nullification."

The issue between the two candidates is plainly drawn. Therefore, we declare our purpose without regard to party lines, to support for the presidency the only candidate who represents our principles, Herbert Hoover.

We further urge every patriotic woman not to fail to vote at the

Janet's eyes misted with tears. "You're very dear, Father."
They had all gathered at supper, and raising a glass of champagne, Augustus Slade proposed his host's health.
Fenimore Wilde rose to reply. "My friends," he said, in his musical voice, "tonight forms almost a turning-point in my career when I look around me and—"

Janet saw her father's face turn a grey-green in color. His hand went to his throat, and then, after a ghastly second, Fenimore Wilde crashed face down over the supper-table, and lay still.
Fenimore Wilde had delivered his last lines.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Editor, The Circleville Herald: Prohibition, well its wonderful. It cost the government $30,000,000 a year to try to enforce it and you can get any kind of a drink in any state in the union. It is the cause of so many corrupt officials, gun-men and hi-jackers. What would it be if we had a prohibition president? Who would they nominate? If they were looking for the biggest man for the party, they would have to name a moonshiner. Where would they get their campaign funds? How would they eliminate all these gun-men and thugs if they ever modify or do away with prohibition. They are so used to easy money what would they go in for? With the money that the government spent trying to enforce prohibition they could build a sea wall from Cairo, Ill., to New Or-

for Governor. Our members in both parties are assured that whichever is elected, Ohio will have a Governor who is both personally and politically dry.

In regard to the Presidential candidates, we affirm that Governor Smith's record as a member of Tammany Hall, and a life-long friend of the liquor traffic condemns him in the eyes of every dry voter.

He has publicly announced that if elected he will recommend the complete modification (weakening) of the Volstead law. There could be no greater discredit to law observance than to have in the White House a president who by his own personal habits and influence sets an example of disrespect for law.

On the contrary, Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance says, "I do not favor the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Modifications of the enforcement law which would permit what the Constitution forbids, is nullification."

The issue between the two candidates is plainly drawn. Therefore, we declare our purpose without regard to party lines, to support for the presidency the only candidate who represents our principles, Herbert Hoover.

We further urge every patriotic woman not to fail to vote at the November election.

Signed: LUCY B. PRICE, Pres.
BESSIE M. LONG, Sec.

MARION DAVIES IS STAR
A full-sized replica of the interior of a magnificent exclusive hotel at Monte Carlo was built on one of the big stages at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios for scenes in Marion Davies' new starring picture, "The Cardboard Lover," now playing at the Metropolitan theatre.

The hotel is used for one of the opening sequences of the story where Miss Davies, with twenty-five beautiful college girls, arrives at Monte Carlo for a week's visit. Here in the hotel where they are stopping she meets Nils Asther, the hero, and Jetta Goudal, the exotic siren, who has bewitched his senses.

FALL FESTIVAL POPULAR
The American Legion Festival opened here Wednesday night. Due to inclement weather a large attendance was not expected the opening day. However, on Thursday and Friday the streets of the town could hardly hold the immense crowd. The booming music of the merry-go-round, shouts of barkers and the hum of wheels of chance mingled with the noise of a crowd of people out to enjoy themselves. The dance given by the Legion in the Town hall was a huge success. The orchestra was a good one and all the dancers seem to realize it. An even larger crowd was present Saturday the last night of the Festival.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Shaffer and son, James, and Miss Geneva Adams were business visitors in Circleville Tuesday.

The six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown was severely injured when he caught his foot in a hole in the sidewalk in front of the Masonic Temple Friday evening. The child was watching the automobiles on display at the Festival and stumbled into a large hole formerly used to ventilate an underground barber shop. As he fell his face struck the sidewalk knocking out all of his upper teeth and lacerating the gums so deeply as to show the immature second teeth. The boy's mouth is so swollen and sore that he can only take no. 10-1

The house that advertising built

You've seen it. It's not large. Nor is it small. It's just comfortable. Every line of its architecture shows the hand of a master. It is built of splendid, lasting materials. From cellar to attic it is perfect. It is completely equipped with modern labor and time saving devices—oil burner, washing machine, vacuum cleaner, electric irons, electric fans, etc. Everything needed to make living a pleasure is there.

It's the house that advertising makes possible. Everything in it from the asbestos shingles on the roof to the concrete foundation blocks is advertised—even the plan itself, made by a famous architect, can be bought for a nominal sum. And because so many people read the advertisements for the different things going into this house—because so many buy them—the price of this house is well within your reach.

Stoutsville Girl Is Married In Airplane Flying Above Clouds

A wedding ceremony in the clouds literally a breath taking affair was performed Wednesday over Cincinnati, and united in marriage Miss Lucille Meyers of Stoutsville and Paul G. Woods, of Cincinnati. They were Cincinnati's first aerial bride and groom. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Meyers of Stoutsville, the latter accompanying the wedding party into the sky. Dr. A. L. Kefauver of Stoutsville and Pearl Brown, of Ashville, were also present. Riding behind a powerful tri-

LOANS UP TO $500

There may be a lot of credit due a man's wife but she usually demands cash—just like the doctor, the landlord and all the other fellows of good judgment. The difficulty lies in trying to satisfy them all. With the present-day demands for money the average pay-check seems to go about as far as a bottle of "very Old Kentucky" at a national political convention.

The man is wise, providing he wants to be free from debt, who assembles his obligations and concentrates his efforts on a City Loan account. Perhaps you are in a position to know how hard it is to make headway against bills and debts—if so you can readily understand the benefits of a long-time loan.

C. G. CHALFIN, Manager.

motored plane at an elevation of 4,500 feet, the Rev. William Tate Paterson of the Norwood Presbyterian church of Cincinnati, pronounced the words that made Miss Meyers and Paul G. Woods, husband and wife, as the bridal party circled over Watson Airport.

Outside, another airplane circled and dove, in this way expressing congratulations to the young couple. Inside, the young husband took his bride into his arms and kissed her in much the same manner other young men have kissed their brides at the conclusion of an ordinary ceremony. And, inside, Mrs. W. O. Meyers, mother of the bride, shook her head doubtfully. It was not doubt over the future of the young couple, but doubt whether she would ever reach earth again.

The flight was her first one and she was not so certain about the safety of the entire trip. Hitting air pockets frequently until an elevation of over 2,500 feet had been reached, she found not to her liking, but as the motor idled at about one mile above the earth and her daughter and prospective son-in-law stood up at the front end of the cabin, she regained her composure and smiled as the Rev. Paterson pronounced the words that gave her daughter a new name.

The familiar words of the wedding ceremony could be heard clearly by all the guests. Members of the party moved freely about and extended their well wishes to the young couple.

Pilot T. R. Howe, who was best man, turned the nose of the plane earthward, and the wedding made in the clouds was completed. In the wedding party were Daisy Woods, sister of the bridegroom, who was maid of honor; Mrs. Roy Wood, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor; Mrs. W. O. Meyers, the bride's mother; Miss Anna Marie Husman, Dr. A. L. Kefauver and Roy Woods.

The bride and groom are planning a short air trip away from Cincinnati and when they return will make their home in Cincinnati. The groom is attached to the air force at Watson Airport.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods will visit her parents in Stoutsville, during the Circleville Pumpkin Show. The bride has a host of friends in Stoutsville and Circleville who will wish her much happiness.

BRIDE-ELECT IS HONORED

Miss Nelle Rooney of Columbus, who has been feted at a number of elaborate and delightful social functions there, was again the guest of honor at 8 o'clock Saturday night at an outstanding society event in Circleville at which Miss Ethel Rife of S. Court-st was hostess.

Miss Rife had decorated her home in an effective arrangement of marigolds and asters. The guests found their places at the nine card tables and progressed five times during the evening, playing a spirited and interesting game.

After the last hand Miss Rife found Miss Marvene Holderman and Mrs. Max Friedman to have the two highest scores. They were the recipients of trophies, unusual and attractive. Miss Rooney, the guest of honor also received a gift.

Herbert Hoover Endorsed In Resolution Adopted At County Meeting.

More than 100 women of Pickaway county met in the Methodist church Friday for the annual convention of the W. C. T. U. Included in the important business on hand was the annual election of officers, in which the following were elected: Mrs. Lucy B. Price, county president; Miss Mary E. Porter, vice president; Mrs. Bessie M. Long, recording secretary; Mrs. Abbie Gussman, treasurer. The president then appointed Mrs. Adda Prushing, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Lucy E. Van Kirk, editor of the Ohio Messenger, had charge of the election. Other reports and appointments of committees were a part of the day's program.

The county president, Mrs. Lucy B. Price, was the presiding officer, who recently has been very ill, but filled her position in her usual very capable manner. Mrs. Abbie Gussman gave the morning devotion and led in prayer. A very hearty welcome was extended to the convention by Mrs. Lulu Marion, president of the local W. C. T. U. The response was given by Mrs. Della Hay, president of the Walnut-twp. Union.

The newly elected officers stood in row and were given the white ribbon salute and cheer by the convention. The meeting adjourned with the noonday song and prayer by Mrs. Mary H. Dunlap. All then repaired to the basement where a delicious chicken pie dinner was served by the Ladies Aid of the M. E. church.

Promptly at one o'clock there was an executive meeting in the Ladies' parlor—during which directors of departments were named for the year.

The afternoon session opened by a spirited song service led by county musical director, Mrs. Alma Boor. The devotions were in charge of Miss Mary Porter. The following list of directors of departments which were named in the executive meeting were read by the secretary and on motion confirmed by the convention: Anti-Narcotics, Mrs. Mary Dunlap; Child Welfare, Miss Mary Harpster; Christian Citizenship, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck; Cooks, Mrs. Abbie Gussman; Evangelistic, Mrs. Mary E. Gray; Exhibits and Fairs, Mrs. Noah Spangler; Flower Mission, Mrs. Mary Helskel Dunlap; Health, Mrs. Gladys Carpenter; Institute, Central committee; Legislation, Miss Florence Teegardin; Parliamentary Usage, Mrs. Adele Wall; Peace and International Arbitration, Mrs. Florence Seaburn; Prison Reform, Mrs. Abbie Gussman; Publicity, Mrs. Delphine Cromley; S. T. I. Work, Mrs. Katherine Reber; Social Morality, Mrs. Ada E. Van Vickle; Soldiers and Sailors, Mrs. Mary Rife; S. S. Work, Mrs. Jennie Shump; Temperance and Missions, Miss Pearl Adkins; Bible in Public School, Mrs. Cora Parks; L. T. L. Secretary, Mrs. May Reber Crites; Y. P. B. Secretary, Mrs. Bessie M. Long; Musical Director, Mrs. Alma Boor; Pianist, Mrs. Meda Hay; Motion Picture Department, Mrs. Julia Weaver.

A resolution was read and on motion adopted by the body, that Pickaway County W. C. T. U., endorse Herbert Hoover.

A very impressive memorial service followed in charge of Mrs. Adda Prushing in memory of ten members, who have passed away in the county during the past year. Mrs. Myrtle Noggle sang a very pretty solo and Mrs. Abbie Gussman offered prayer. A very inspiring address followed by Mrs. Lucy E. Van Kirk, a fearless, wideawake temperance woman. Some of the things she said were: "She had lived in the days of the open saloon and had no patience with anyone who would wish to bring back that miserable condition. The godly women of the U. S. A., will not stand for it for a moment and there are enough godly men to help them to beat Alfred Smith 2 to 1. We have honest Democrats and we have honest Republicans. We need both parties. Al Smith is not brave, but he is brazen. If there are more bad people in the U. S. than good people—then Alfred Smith will be elected. The church should stand enmass for prohibition. What has undermined our homes more in America than the liquor traffic? Prove by statistics that more liquor is sold now than in the days of the open saloon. It can't be done. Work as you never worked before get every woman out—bury Al Smith so deep that no party will ever dare to put up another such a man as Alfred E. Smith.

Mrs. Alma Boor sang very effectively at this time. "It is in the Constitution and It's There, There to Stay."

Mr. Noah G. Spangler, president of Pickaway County, Dry Defense League was introduced and gave a splendid talk urging the women on to victory, and tell-abroad upon the ing many items he gleaned abroad upon the liquor question and whether or not a nation can prosper, and drink booze.

After reports of committees, etc., the convention was closed with prayer by Mrs. Lucy E. Van Kirk.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AS A YOUNG MAN

Franklin's early life was full of hardships and difficulties, as is commonly known. His first position was as a printer's helper, which was by no means lucrative, but it was the only business he was adapted to. Later he started a printing shop of his own and founded the Pennsylvania Gazette. The Saturday Evening Post of today was also founded by him.

The courtesy and tact shown by our representatives is just another appreciated feature of our service.

Stoutsville Girl Is Married In Airplane Flying Above Clouds

A wedding ceremony in the clouds literally a breath taking affair was performed Wednesday over Cincinnati, and united in marriage Miss Lucille Meyers of Stoutsville and Paul G. Woods, of Cincinnati. They were Cincinnati's first aerial bride and bridegroom. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Meyers of Stoutsville, the latter accompanying the wedding party into the sky. Dr. A. L. Kefauver of Stoutsville and Pearl Brown, of Ashville, were also present. Riding behind a powerful trimotored plane at an elevation of 4,500 feet, the Rev. William Tate Paterson of the Norwood Presbyterian church of Cincinnati, pronounced the words that made Miss Meyers and Paul G. Woods, husband and wife, as the bridal party circled over Watson Airport.

Outside, another airplane circled and dove in this way expressing congratulations to the young couple. Inside, the young husband took his bride into his arms and kissed her in much the same manner other young men have kissed their brides at the conclusion of an ordinary ceremony. And, inside, Mrs. W. O. Meyers, mother of the bride, shook her head doubtfully. It was not doubt over the future of the young couple, but doubt whether she would ever reach earth again.

The flight was her first one and she was not so certain about the safety of the entire trip. Hitting air pockets frequently until an elevation of over 2,500 feet had been reached, she found not to her liking, but as the motor idled at about one mile above the earth and her daughter and prospective son-in-law stood up at the front end of the cabin, she regained her composure and smiled as the Rev. Paterson pronounced the words that gave her daughter a new name.

The familiar words of the wedding ceremony could be heard clearly by all the guests. Members of the party moved freely about and extended their well wishes to the young couple.

Pilot T. R. Howe, who was best man, turned the nose of the plane earthward, and the wedding made in the clouds was completed. In the wedding party were Daisy Woods, sister of the bridegroom, who was maid of honor; Mrs. Roy Wood, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor; Mrs. W. O. Meyers, the bride's mother; Miss Anna Marie Husman, Dr. A. L. Kefauver and Roy Woods.

The bride and groom are planning a short air trip away from Cincinnati and when they return will make their home in Cincinnati. The groom is attached to the air force at Watson Airport.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods will visit her parents in Stoutsville, during the Circleville Pumpkin Show. The bride has a host of friends in Stoutsville and Circleville who will wish her much happiness.

METROPOLITAN TUESDAY

THE CARDBOARD LOVER

With JETTA GOUDAL NILS ASTHER

Directed By Robert Z. Leonard

Broadway shook with laughter for months at the play! The film is even funnier, and beautiful Marion Davies is just grand as the girl who gambles with love at Monte Carlo—where men are men, and women are after them. PARAMOUNT NEWS and FABLES.

LOANS UP TO $500

There may be a lot of credit due a man's wife but she usually demands cash—just like the doctor, the landlord and all the other fellows of good judgment. The difficulty lies in trying to satisfy them all. With the present-day demands for money the average pay-check seems to go about as far as a bottle of "Very Old Kentucky" at a national political convention.

The man is wise, providing he wants to be free from debt, who assembles his obligations and concentrates his efforts on a City Loan account. Perhaps you are in a position to know how hard it is to make headway against bills and debts—so you can readily understand the benefits of a long-time loan.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Graphic Outlines of History

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AS A YOUNG MAN

Franklin's early life was full of hardships and difficulties, as is commonly known. His first position was as a printer's helper, which was by no means lucrative, but it was the only business he was adapted to. Later he started a printing shop of his own and founded the Pennsylvania Gazette. The Saturday Evening Post of today was also founded by him. The courtesy and tact shown by our representatives is just another appreciated feature of our service.
